

The Sound and Fury:
*Duterte's First Year in Office

Richard Heydarian

Outline

- Emerging Markets and Political Cycles
- Duterte's Rise and What it Means
- First Year in Office
- Dilemmas and Opportunities Ahead

The Politics of Emerging Markets

- Political cycles key to investment flows and macroeconomic trajectory (Sharma 2012; 2013;2016)
- Aquino: Most popular retiring PH president in recent memory - 55% approval rating heading into twilight months in office
- Continued best practices of his predecessor in macro-economic reforms (e.g., Tetangco in BSP).
- Peace process and good governance initiatives – mixed results, but signal reformist intention

PH recent success story

- Serendipitous convergence of 5 factors:
 1. Advent of post-recession QE and inflow of “hot money” into EM;
 2. Descent of BRICS and tier-1 EMs, placing spotlight on tier-2 Ems;
 3. Denouement of macro-prudential reforms, beginning in mid-2000s;
 4. Political stability brought about by Aquino’s administration;
 5. Resilience of remittances and dynamism of services sectors (i.e., BPO, retail, real estate);

Reference Bias

- Aquino's approval ratings bounded back, despite major setbacks (i.e., Mamasapano), so shows the elasticity of public support;
- Benefited from reference bias – juxtaposed to perceived blunders of predecessor (i.e., Arroyo)
- Instituted “just good enough” institutional reforms to place the PH on the map

Aquino's Successor

- Critical, because a question of continuing reforms or returning to business-as-usual patron-client politics
- Could (partially) redirect PH foreign policy and dampen reformist momentum
- Fear of an Arroyo 2.0 scenario – reversion to the mean.

Key Challenges

- Primary challenge: Prove that recent gains are beginning of a new chapter, not a sui generis;
- More than victory of his preferred candidate, Aquino should ensure credibility of elections;
- Next president should have enough mandate to translate recent reforms into structural transformation -- balance continuity and innovation;

Four possible post-Aquino Scenarios

- Thaksin scenario: A candidate with a core base confined to D & E, but not favorable reception among ABC;
- Jokowi Scenario: An inexperienced but popular leader could struggle to initiate major reforms, partly due to absence of strong base constituency
- Abhisit scenario: Technocratic-managerial leader, but no charisma and mass following
- “Erap” scenario: Populist but erratic leadership, combined with sense of impunity/hubris, could lead to political backlash

Strongman Populism

Unique National Figure

- Strongest among the ABC class: AB, who seek law and order for better business environment, while C and upper-Ds, the ‘aspirational middle class’, who resent ‘glass ceiling’ of mobility and worry about basic safety (moderate-to-high elasticity in political leaning, particularly the NCR-Luzon area)
- “Populist” charisma: Folksy persona, informality, anti-elitist rhetoric, accessibility, and perceived “political outsider” image.
- Strongman: Limited respect for institutions of checks and balances, micro-manager (still ‘mayor’ mode), and openly threatening regime change;
- Key strength: Perceived as non-corrupt, decisive and single-minded, and a radical “change” from usual mold of national politicians (“Iba Siya”); effective and systematic discrediting of alternative politicians (“Oligarchy/Dilaw/Elitista/Trapo/Salita Lang, Walang Gawa”).

The Three Duterte's

- The Showman: Similar to other emerging market populists such as Hugo Chavez, he can hold long-winding, humor-laded, laid back, and entertaining speeches; cuss words interpreted as 'authenticity';
- Dirty Harry: Effective deployment of 'penal populism': I maybe an SOB, but I am your SOB against the real forces of evil (i.e., criminals, drugs users, oligarchy, imperialist powers)
- The Machiavelli: Knows how to get things done, mobilize support and build coalitions, ensure loyalty, and combine the Fox (charm) and the Lion (strength) to win over people.

The Populist Wave

- Past decade has seen the rise of populists and/or strongmen around emerging market democracies
- Recep Tayyip Erdoğan (Turkey) – Former mayor of Istanbul, who won landslide elections on the back of decisive brand of leadership, mobilizing the priousunderclass and emerging middle class against the laic, Westernized elite;
- Narendra Mod I (India): Former governor of booming Gujarat state, who a landslide elections in India by harnessing Hindu nationalism, anti-elitist rhetoric, and touting his decisive, non-corrupt brand of leadership.
- Joko Widodo (Indonesia): Former mayor of small city of Solo, and shortly governor of Jakarta, who won on the back of massive middle class, youth mobilization based on the promise of nationalism, economic protectionism, social justice (redistributive policies) and departure from the national oligarchy;

Policy Ruptures and Political Risk

Opportunity for Positive Change:

1. Peace negotiations – more inclusive and committed negotiations with the Reds and Islamist rebels
2. Anti-Trust Regulation – Competition Commission (under Balisacan) and less attachment to the oligarchy
3. Infrastructure development – Duterteconomics, address ‘under-spending’ of previous administration, less beholden to ‘good governance’ redtape, and stronger international support (Japan and China)
4. Necessary constitutional amendments – relaxation of restrictions on foreign investments, joint development in PH EEZ, presidential term office.

Political Risk

1. War on Drugs – ICC challenge; EU/US legislature; Rule of Law (i.e., WB governance index); Tokhang 2.0
2. Federalism – transition could be messy and expensive, strengthening of centrifugal forces (political dynasties), create overlapping regulations and additional offices; few regions capable of sustaining themselves only;
3. Marcos connection and VP office – crucial to watch is the SC decision on electoral fraud complaint; how the PET handles the issue, and outcome – and corresponding public perception

4. Foreign policy – correct strategic sensibility, but often amateurish tactics, flip-flopping pronouncements, which could undermine PH's strategic signal's credibility. Trump, though, could help the situation;

5. Civil-military relations – Concerns over Duterte's affinity with the Reds, the direction of peace negotiations and relations with American and China; offer of bonuses and salary increase important, plus appointment of 7 AFP chiefs of staff to cabinet/sub-cabinet positions.

6. Fiscal Reform and TRAIN – close loopholes, standardize and update tax rates, improve collection and reduce exemptions; strong counter-lobby, especially among cooperatives, and, lesser degree, real estate/auto industries.

- 7. Marawi and Specter of IS

Troubling convergence of DAESH' pivot to the East, and the stagnation in the peace process in Mindanao post-Mamasapano in early-2015; risk of contagion, with foreign fighters and hardliners within major rebel groups joining in; post-Marawi reconstruction and grievances

8. Debt Trap and Dutertenomics – crucial importance of avoiding fiscal overstretch, overreliance on foreign debt (with high interest rates); and ensuring good governance regulations in place and implemented

- 9. Factional conflicts, Internal GOT – neo-liberal “technocratic trio” vs. progressives; Bong Go vs. Evasco; Cayetano vs. Marcos.

Conclusion: Sub-Optimal Equilibrium

- Economic growth robust, with DOF and BSP maintaining policy competence, but greater volatility in investment sentiment and policy predictability Opportunity cost: Foregone investments by Western counterparts, particularly EU. (year-on-year investment down by 90%. From $1.44b to $141m).
- Duterte maintain robust levels of popularity (though no counter-historical), but discover limits of his unilateral decision-making power on key policies (i.e., SCS; communists rebels; US and counter-terrorism, war on drugs) as aura of invincibility is gradually shattered;
- Weakening of institutions, from law enforcement to judiciary and legislative, giving way to proto-authoritarian system;
- Specter of Putin-style crackdown on free-liberal media
- Opposition weakened, lack of central leadership and appealing narrative
